

Respect means that you like the way that person acts, works, or the way that person treats you and others.